

Recertification Requirements

(As of June 2017)

To maintain the CDME certification, graduates must attend a minimum of four DMO focused continuing education courses (in person and/or online) per year for the four years following your graduation. These can include any sessions at Destinations International events, as well as those of state or regional DMOs, other industry organization programs, and any informal industry working groups, such as the DMO HR and Finance & Admin Shirtsleeves groups, etc. At least one of the four annual courses must come from a Destinations International offering. Over the course of the four years, graduates will be required to have accumulated 16 total courses attended, or four Summits, or a variance of the two (i.e., eight courses and 4 Summits). Accrual of these courses can be cumulative. Please note, beginning in 2018, Destinations International will be offering a CDME Summit on an annual basis. Attendance at this CDME summit will be equivalent of the four courses required mentioned above. More details will be released later in 2017.

Please complete this recertification application and submit to Destinations International at cdme@destinationsinternational.org
